Synthesis of the good example

The World Refugee Day Fair Play cup is one of Ireland's largest World Refugee Day event, supported by the UN High Commissioner for Refugees. The tournament seeks to celebrate the contribution of refugees to communities throughout Ireland and to highlight the continued plight of the millions of people throughout the world who are forced to flee their homes to seek for refugee protection.

Highlights and outcomes

The event shows a positive celebration with the objective to catch a large audience to be aware of refugees situation. The other programs developed by the organisation might be of your interest, especially if you are looking about football activities.

Context and approach

The main objective of this event is to highlight to a large audience the harsh situation of refugees forced to flee their countries to seek protection and refuge. This event has been created to generate positive experiences and feedbacks about the contribution of refugees in Ireland. Indeed, this celebration wants to encourage media to share this event, as they do for sports events in general.

Information about project/organisation's holder

SARI (Sport Against Racism Ireland) is a not-for-profit and volunteer-driven social organisation animated to using sport as a medium to promote social inclusion. Established in 1997 as a response to the increasing of racist attacks in Ireland society, the organisation is now standing against all forms of discrimination by developing campaigns and several events for celebrating people from different cultures and backgrounds and learn from these differences.
